SWISS SPECIALIST ROC BECOMES PART OF POLLET WATER GROUP

22.03.2023
WAREGEM (BE) - REINACH (CH)

REINACH (CH) - WAREGEM (BE) The Swiss water treatment specialist ROC becomes part of the Pollet Water Group. ROC is a leading expert in ion exchange and membrane technology. The company has built a solid reputation in the water treatment industry in Switzerland. The Pollet Water Group, for its part, is active worldwide and consists of 28 specialised water treatment companies.

ROC, founded by Vashek Polasek, is a Swiss specialist in water treatment. From day one, ROC has been strongly committed to providing technical advice and support. As a result, the company is valued for its extensive expertise in membrane technology and ion exchange. The combination of expertise and an extensive range of leading brands in membranes, resins, EDI solutions, filter media and more has given ROC a unique position in the industrial water treatment market in the DACH region.

We are pleased to be part of the Pollet Water Group and to have the opportunity to add more products to our portfolio

The Pollet Water Group is represented worldwide with a total of 28 water treatment companies in now 14 countries. The group focuses on the professional water treatment market with solutions for the private and industrial sectors. In addition to a strong pan-European sales platform, the group also has its own manufacturers and engineering offices.

Andrea Lamby: "The course is set and the future of ROC is secured. We are pleased to be part of the Pollet Water Group and to have the opportunity to add more products to our portfolio". Sven Ameye, CEO of Pollet Water Group: "We believe that it is important to preserve the existing genes of each company in our group. By integrating ROC into Pollet Water Group, we are securing the strengths of this company and supporting its future growth. ROC has an excellent reputation in the market and has extensive expertise in water treatment. We are proud and excited to welcome ROC to the Pollet Water Group!"

Andrea Lamby will continue to lead the company. Pollet Water Group is part of Pollet Group.
